

Annual Conference

Massachusetts Early Intervention Consortium

Monday & Tuesday, May 2 & 3, 2022
Online via Zoom

DISCLOSURE FORM

The Massachusetts Early Intervention Consortium ensures its educational activities provide balance, independence, objectivity, and scientific rigor. Individuals associated with accredited educational activity including, but not limited to, instructional personnel, content specialists and/or immediate family members, are required to disclose to the audience any vested financial or non-financial relationships related to course content prior to the start of the instructional activity.

Financial relationships are those relationships through which the individual benefits by receiving a salary, royalty, intellectual property rights, gift, speaking fee, consulting fee, honorarium, ownership interest (e.g., stocks, stock options, or other ownership interest, excluding diversified mutual funds), or other financial benefit. Financial relationships can also include "contracted research" in which the institution obtains the grant and manages the funds and the individual serves as the principal or named investigator.

Nonfinancial relationships are those relationships—including personal, professional, political, institutional, religious, or other—that might bias an individual. For example:

- Personal – the individual has a friend in the company whose products the presenter is discussing; the individual has a family member or friend with a disorder covered by the course presented.
- Professional – the presenter belongs to an association or group whose services are discussed in the presentation; the presenter has a professional bias about a way to deliver a particular service; he or she is employed by or serves in a leadership role for ASHA or another professional organization.
- Political – the presenter is biased about a topic (e.g., health care reform), and that bias reflected the position of a particular political party on the issue.
- Institutional – the presenter is affiliated with an institution or organization (e.g., serves on a committee or board of that organization); the presenter belongs to and/or financially supports the organization's causes.
- Religious – a bias that is based on religious tenets (e.g., the presenter is biased in favor of service delivery at end of life based on his or her religious beliefs).

Disclosure does not prohibit an educational activity from being offered or awarding of continuing education credits; rather, it ensures proper planning to ensure that educational courses are free from the appearance of or actual conflicts of interest. The intent of the disclosure is to provide listeners with information to determine whether the interests or relationships influence the presentation and/or to resolve potential conflicts as deemed necessary.
